GREEN LIGHT FOR TOWN HALL PLAN

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A DEAL has finally been struck with a property consortium for the £27million restoration of Hornsey Town Hall.

Consent for the refurbishment of the 1930s' grade two-listed building was re-confirmed by Haringey Council's cabinet last week after its decision last month to approve the scheme was "called in" by the local authority's scrutiny watchdog committee, which, after making recommendations, referred it back to cabinet.

The scheme will see the dilapidated, art-deco building, in The Broadway, Crouch End, renovated with the creation of new arts centre, two cafes and a restaurant, a four-star boutique hotel, improved access to its public square and the building of 123 homes on land to the back of the town hall.

The council has struck a deal with UK-based company Far East Consortium International Ltd to deliver the scheme and a long lease on the site has been taken out by the property developer.

It has teamed up with partner Coplan Estates in the venture and will appoint a specialist arts centre operator to run community spaces within the town hall. It is also launching a dedicated website in the new year to update residents on progress as well as establishing a "community hub" onsite to provide information and give the opportunity for feedback.

"After more than ten years of work, we have

Go-ahead: Hornsey Town Hall has been cleared for a £27million restoration secured a clear plan to bring the town hall back to life and save it for future generations," said Alan Strickland, Haringey cabinet member for regeneration, housing and planning.

John Connolly, FEC's head of development, added: "The town hall is unique and our proposal to restore it will ensure it remains one of most iconic buildings in London."

Free parking could add up to a Christmas bonus for traders

IT could be jingle bells for struggling Haringey traders on Saturday, December 3, as the council plays Santa by making parking free for Christmas shoppers for the day.

Those searching for presents will be able to relax without worrying a traffic warden may slap a ticket on their car for overstaying the permitted time limit.

The council is making it free to park across the borough for the day to encourage shoppers to spend money in local high street shops and stores as part of Small Business Saturday.

Parking charges in council-owned town centre car parks and pay and display bays will be suspended temporarily in a bid to boost the local economy.

There will also be a variety of attractions to draw shoppers and help retailers increase takings.

They include a Christmas tree lights switch-on in High Road, Wood Green, carol singing, live music and DJs, salsa dancing and pop up stalls on the corner of Lymington Avenue.

Meanwhile, the Tottenham Winter Festival is being held from midday until 6pm at Tottenham Green, in High Cross, including a Christmas tree lights switch-on at 5pm, as well as market stalls, family activities and live music performances.

In Crouch End there will be a Christmas Craft Market from 10am to 5pm.

And on Sunday the Myddleton Road Festival is being staged in Wood Green with attractions which feature a Santa's grotto music, craft and food and drink stalls, a funfair and other children's activities.

"Free parking across Haringey is a fantastic way to mark Small Business Saturday and will encourage people to shop local rather than head to the West End as they look for Christmas gifts," said Haringey Council's cabinet member for the environment Peray Ahmet.

Controlled parking zones and other essential parking restrictions including road works will remain in force on Small Business Saturday.

Council 'proud to resettle refugees'

REFUGEE groups have welcomed a pledge by Haringey Council to resettle 10 Syrian families in the borough.

The council's cabinet agreed to re-locate the victims of the conflict at a meeting last week. But although it vowed to bring them here "as soon as possible," the council said how quickly depended on the Home Office.

Council leader Claire Kober said: "I am proud Haringey will resettle up to 10 Syrian refugee families. We will work around the clock to give refugee families a safe home and the support they need to rebuild their lives."

Nathan Lee, of the Refugees Welcome Haringey campaign group, said he hoped at least four families could be re-located in time for Christmas "so that some of the more vulnerable individuals are not forced to spend another desperately cold winter living in the Middle East refugee camps".

Kidnapper jailed

A MAN, who burst into his former partner's Tottenham home in the early hours and kidnapped a male he found with her, has been jailed for four years.

Mustafa Kiziltan, 27, and two unidentified men forced entry to the flat on February 28 this year.

After verbally abusing his ex-partner, a noxious liquid was sprayed at a 21-year-old man who was also in the flat. He was then partially stripped and threatened with knives.

But as the three men tried to bundle their victim into a car, he escaped and flagged down police who were on the way to the address, having received a call.

Kiziltan, of Hackney, east London, was convicted of kidnap at Wood Green Crown Court last Monday. His two accomplices remain at large.

Bright idea for road safety

Safety message: School travel council members Jess Falloon, Jack Stevens, Sophie Michael and Dilara Celik

By Julia Gregory

julia.gregory@nlhnews.co.uk

CHILDREN at a primary school are encouraging their families to pledge to stick to road safety rules as part of a national campaign to keep them safe.

George Spicer School's travel council decided to ask families to take selfies holding up road safety signs.

They urged their parents to join in the campaign and hold up signs showing they are committing to sticking to 20mph speed limits around the school and making sure everyone in a car wears a seatbelt.

Their campaign is part of national Road Safety Week.

Pupils at the school, in Southbury Road, Enfield, are joining in quizzes, competitions and activities to learn more about road safety.

Teacher Sonia Allen, who works with the 16 pupils on the travel council, which looks at road safety, sustainable travel and walking to school, said: "The council wanted to raise awareness of the 20mph speed limit in the area and the impact of wearing a seatbelt for adults and children."

The selfies will be put on display in the school grounds.

Pupils are also wearing brightly coloured clothes for a Wacky Wednesday event at school to promote "be bright, be seen".

They are paying £1 to wear their multi-coloured mufti and the money will go towards buying a banner promoting road safety to be displayed outside the school.

It will be calling for motorists to stick to the 20mph limit.

Mrs Allen added: "We've also done a survey of how children and staff travel to school and will be analysing it."

She said that people used a "mixture" of different transport to get to school.

Many teachers walk or cycle while some of them "park and stride" on their way to work.

Take extra care, brigade urges drivers

LONDON Fire Brigade has released figures showing that attendance at road traffic accidents are at an all-time high.

The fire brigade is urging drivers to take extra care after new figures, which list Enfield in the top four of London's call-outs, revealed a significant increase in the number of accidents crews are called to.

In Enfield alone, they attended 987 incidents between 2011 and 2015.

Dave Brown, director of operations at London Fire Brigade, said: "Our crews are spending an increasing amount of time attending road traffic collisions and I want to urge people to take care on the road."

The new figures have been released to coincide with Road Safety Week.

French school celebrates first birthday

CELEBRATIONS are being held this weekend to mark the first anniversary of the opening of an Enfield-based French Saturday school.

Mayor of Enfield Bernadette Lapage will be the guest of honour at the Un Matin Français, a charity that teaches French to bilingual children with French-speaking parents or children who are keen to learn the language.

The classes are taught at Grange Park Primary School, in Worlds End Lane, Winchmore Hill.

Charlotte Beddoes, headteacher at the French school, said: "The classes are for all children – French-speaking or not."

On his bike: Matt Baker, of The One Show, takes part in the Rickshaw Challenge for Children in Need

Matt's ride on time for Children in Need

PEDALLING furiously, TV presenter Matt Baker was cheered on by Enfield residents as he travelled through the borough on Friday on the final leg of his 4 70-mile Rickshaw Challenge for BBC TV's Children in Need.

Riding with the joint presenter of The One Show was one of the team of six children who accompanied him rotating with one another on each stage of the gruelling trip, having set off eight days earlier in Jedburgh, Scotland.

The rickshaw and its celebrity outsider were gone in the blink of an eye as they travelled along Hertford Road, High Street, Ponders End and Fore Street, Edmonton, on their way to the BBC studios in central London, where the annual fundraising telethon was being held that night.

His efforts, along with those of the young riders who had triumphed over their disabilities to take on the challenge, raised more than £3.5million towards the final Children in Need total of £40m.

Praising the efforts of the youngsters who had ridden with him, Matt said: "They have done this challenge for other children, so children just like them can overcome these challenges."

"The support we have had all of the way has been outstanding. I can't believe the turnout which was all for Team Rickshaw."

He told the team of youngsters: "I don't need to tell you all how proud I am."

A Trashy take on Trump's triumph

DONALD Trump has been cut down to size by unorthodox artist Ayjay Trashy, who creates miniature works of art out of the packaging coffee shop drinkers and customers of fast food restaurants chuck away.

A tiny painting of America's president-elect on a Starbuck's tea bag tag features in his latest quirky and unconventional exhibition at the Dugdale Centre, in Enfield Town.

The image, smaller than a postage stamp, pictured right, shows Mr Trump about to clobber Hillary Clinton over the head with a baseball bat bound with barbed wire.

"I've based it on the American TV horror drama series The Walking Dead about a zombie apocalypse. It's a bit aggressive," admits Ayjay.

Used sugar sachets, crumpled paper napkins, tea bag tags and even McDonald's chip cartons form the canvases for the 42-year-old's intricately detailed paintings, many of which feature world famous icons.

Having exhibited at the Dugdale, in London Road, two years ago with his Sugar Trashy show, he returns with his Incredible Shrinking Man exhibition.

Self-taught without any formal artistic training Ayjay, real name Alex Tracy, started painting on napkins when he used to drink cappuccinos in cafés – until he realised he was allergic to coffee!

He switched to tea, but as he never seemed to get a napkin with his cuppa he began creating images on sugar wrappers, tea bag tags and other discarded objects. Ayjay can often be seen in coffee shops creating his mini-masterpieces using acrylic paint and ultra fine brushes.

"I'm colour blind, so I work in acrylic paints because they are brighter and I can see them," he explained

He says the art he is now producing is even smaller and more detailed than that showcased in his previous exhibition and can sometimes take him a week to complete.

His latest collection draws on subject matter that has made an impression on him over the past year and features images of Muhammad Ali, Lemmie, from Motorhead, Prince, David Bowie, astronaut Tim Peake and Great British Bake Off winner Candice Brown.

His works sell for £180 for small items, up to £1,200.

● The Incredible Shrinking Man at the Dugdale Centre is free and runs until Saturday, January 7.

Banking on magic for Chickenshed

BANK staff more used to dealing with commercial property finance than fantasy kingdoms got busy with the tinsel and decorations on Friday to transform part of inclusive Chickenshed Theatre into mini Munchkin-land.

More than 25 volunteers from Barclays Real Estate team swapped their suits for overalls and jeans as they gave the bar at the theatre, in Chase Side, Southgate, a magical makeover.

The transformation was themed to match Chickenshed's Christmas production of Adventure to Oz, with a cast of 800, which is running from this week until January 7.

"They support the theatre and have been decorating our bar every Christmas for the last five years," said Chickenshed spokeswoman Susan Jamson. "We try to create a theatrical experience the moment the audience enters the building and the thrilling Oz wonderland will wow them when they see it."

A bit of sparkle: Breeda Kelly and Mike Wibrew, from Real Estate Team, Barclays London

Let there be lights

Smiles better: Piotr and Leon Pacan

TWINKLING brightly, the big Christmas lights switch-on at Palace Gardens shopping centre, in Enfield Town, on Saturday had festive fun lovers glowing with delight

A host of spectacular attractions spread Yuletide cheer as families and shoppers were treated to a magical afternoon of entertainment and guest appearances.

Most notable among them was Santa himself, who joined four-year-old Lilly Mai Sturgeon and Efe Yuksel, eight, as they threw the switch under a fake snowfall to turn on the lights. The two youngsters had won the privilege after entering a competition on the shopping centre's Facebook page.

And proving as popular as Santa, if not more so, was the appearance of life-size characters Catboy, Owlette and Gekko, from the animated children's TV show PJ Masks.

Also entrancing were a couple of beautiful and mischievous stiltwalk-ing snow foxes called the Raiju, while shoppers were in fits of laughter as Mr Scratchit pulled Mr Scrooge around in a musical armchair singing humorous renditions of Christmas hits by Wham!, East 17 and Mariah Carey.

Palace Gardens manager Paul Duke said: "Everyone loved the snow when the lights went on. PJ Masks were really popular with the youngsters and there was great entertainment for shoppers of all ages."

Under cover: Two young visitors with a stiltwalking snow fox

ARCHERS FINANCIAL SERVICES

Celebrating 25 years in Business...

In October 1991 Noel Sainsbury set up Archers Independent Financial Services on Windmill Hill. Twenty-five years on Archers still offer the same friendly service, "a service tailored to your individual needs, the same courtesy and professionalism is extended to those investing one hundred pounds or one million pounds!"

The firm is very much part of the local community and through Archers and networking with like-minded individuals Noel has raised over half a million pounds for good causes over the years.

Being Independent means that Archers can choose the best products from across the whole range unlike most Banks and Estate Agents who are restricted to one provider or a smaller panel to choose from.

Archers pride themselves on offering products that are only approved by the regulators, the FCA, and would only recommend products that they would arrange for their own friends and families 'one such product has commonly become known as FAD'

FAD or Flexi Access Drawdown has taken the market by storm since being introduced in April 2015. The flexibility of being able to take 25% (a quarter) of your pension pot as a tax-free lump sum and further monies (taxable at your marginal rate) as and when required rather than the straight jacket of an annuity has been welcomed by many due, in part, to the low annuity rates currently available in the market but more so because of the flexibility the new regime offers.

Flexi-access drawdown lets you leave your account invested and take out money from it as and when you need it. The money that remains invested will continue to benefit from investment growth-but please be aware that there is a risk that your invested money could decrease as well as increase in value. Advice should always be sought before entering into a FAD contract as it may not be appropriate for everyone.

If you have pension pots you are looking to access why not ask Archers to look into the best and most tax efficient way of taking them!

'Aim high and be the best you can'

Long jumper offers advice to youngsters during school visit

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

TRAILBLAZING long jumper Ryan Raghoo was told he would never walk.

The GB para-athlete spent the first eight years of his life in a wheelchair after being born with permanent brain damage and cerebral palsy.

Last week he was at Lavender Primary School, in Enfield, inspiring pupils to "aim high and be the best they can".

Ryan led the school's assembly on Wednesday, recounting his amazing life story.

The pupils at the primary school, in Lavender Road, sat mesmerised as they listened to how the 20-year-old broke the T36 British record at the Queensland Open Championships just three months after taking up the sport with a massive 4.61metres leap.

Remarkably, it met the qualification distance needed for selection for this year's Paralympic Games in Rio de Janeiro, but Ryan missed out because the T36 slots – the disability sport classification for people with coordination impairments, including cerebral palsy – went instead to two of Team GB's track athletes.

Ryan, from Croydon, south London, said: "I speak to children a lot – they always seek to take something away from my story, so in many ways my journey is an opportunity for me to inspire people.

"My parents were told I'd never walk, but refused to accept that prognosis and for that I am grateful now.

"It's a privileged position to be in and I am very proud to have reached a level in the sport and be the first person in British history to do that."

Ryan is hoping his record-breaking achievements can help pave the way for the next generation of disability athletes.

He was joined by Laviai Nielsen, a 20-year-old sprinter, who trains at Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club, in between studying geography at King's College London.

She said: "It was really fun to be at the school and show the children some techniques. I was inspired by an athlete who came into my school when I was younger and inspiration is really important for children."

The sprinter has sliced more than five seconds off her 400metres personal best over the past two seasons. Her time of 52.25seconds to win a race in Belgium last year was the quickest by a British under-20 runner for 33 years.

PE co-ordinator at the school Stuart Halley said: "It was a really special day for the children. They learned a lot about athletics, but, not only that, they learned that you can achieve whatever you want if you aim high.

"When Ryan was leading the assembly, every child was transfixed."

Aiming to inspire: Ryan Raghoo and, right, sprinter Laviai Nielsen

A SONG from the hit musical Grease has been adopted by campaigners opposing plans to move Palmers Green into the Edmonton parliamentary constituency.

Commuters at Palmers Green railway station were treated to the anthem We Go Together as campaigners took their battle to the streets.

Under Boundary Commission proposals, the Enfield Southgate parliamentary seat would be split up, with Palmers Green becoming part of the Edmonton constituency.

Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes says the proposed change “disrupts local ties, disrupts local communities and breaks up our community”.

The proposals are part of a bid to cut the number of MPs from 650 to 600.

An estimated 70 to 80 people turned up for a public meeting organised by the Save Our Southgate at the Intimate Theatre, in Green Lanes, on Tuesday last week to see how the changes could affect them.

Mr Burrowes said: “Palmers Green residents will be used to campaigning to stay in Enfield Southgate, having successfully fought off previous boundary change plans.”

“Palmers Green has strong historic and community links to the old borough of Southgate which should be respected and maintained. As the Grease lyrics say, ‘We go together’.”

Mr Burrowes, who has been the MP for Enfield Southgate since 2005, wants to see the constituency remain intact, with the addition of the Bush Hill Park ward to make up the numbers. He also wants to keep three MPs representing residents in the borough of Enfield.

The Save Our Southgate campaign says the Boundary Commission proposals will “disembowel” Enfield Southgate.

Edward Smith, chairman of Enfield Southgate Conservatives, said: “I think people are surprised and shocked.”

“They see that Enfield Southgate is a historic and community entity and this constituency has grown up around artery roads and railways.

“Most people are very concerned and feel their representation will suffer,” added Mr Smith.

The Boundary Commission consultation ends on Monday, December 5.

Pick a card: Girish will perform his magic act at the community centre on Friday

For his next trick...

Girish aims to weave his magic at community centre

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

MEMBERS of a Hindu community centre will see objects vanish and disappear before their very eyes on Friday, although the miraculous feats will be more man-made than divine.

Amateur magician Girish Tailor, who belongs to the Darji Mitra Mandal group, in Oakthorpe Road, Palmers Green, is putting on a special conjuring show.

He will perform the same sleight of hand tricks and illusions which won the 31-year-old the London Society of Magicians' coveted "close-up" magician of the year award.

Proceeds from the show will go towards a Christmas party for the centre's children's club.

Girish only took up magic three years ago and it has become an all-consuming passion – even performing at his own wedding reception where he amazed the 400 guests with a magic trick for his wife Tina.

As he began his speech, he said: "It's the 21st century, everything is 50/50 now" – then he miraculously turned the notes on which his speech was written into a £20 note, followed by two £10 notes.

"Everyone wants to make their wedding special," he explained, "and magic was the obvious choice for me."

Girish, who works in communications for a property management firm, now performs magic at weddings and birthday functions with his on-stage partner Hemmel Amrania, 35, with whom he learned basic magic at workshops run by the London Society of Magicians.

"I love seeing the reaction on people's faces when they wonder how the trick was done – there's something quite mystical about that," he continued.

Girish, who lives in North Finchley, says winning the close-up magician of the year accolade was "humbling".

His favourite magician is popular American illusionist David Blaine and his ambition is to become a member of the prestigious Magic Circle.

"The possibilities of magic are never ending – it's the gift that never stops giving," he added.

Blooming marvellous

GREEN-fingered pupils decided to give it some welly when they spruced up their the grounds at their primary school and built wildlife habitats.

Their unusual horticultural designs scooped George Spicer Primary an award for the best school grounds with an environmental and educational aspect at this year's Enfield in Bloom awards.

Breakfast and after school club manager Amanda Cassidy helped them create homes for wildlife.

They filled old Wellington boots with plants and recycled old school furniture, which they transformed into unusual planters.

The children hung 40 pairs of blooming boots on the railings at the school, in Southbury Road, Enfield, to attract wildlife and create a floral display.

The pupils, who attend the school's key stage 1 Easter and summer clubs, filled the shelving with compost and planted an array of colourful plants.

School business manager Esther Campbell said: "They also collected large drink bottles and cut them in half to make colourful rainbows around the school. We are planning to spend the £20 vouchers the school won to do more – we want to get some new trellises."

Enfield businesses including Thompsons of Crews Hill, Homebase and B&Q donated plants and materials.

Flower girls: Pupils Isabella Ayres and Akasha McLaren with the award

Seven-year-olds Grace Linnane and Jack Campbell and Akasha McLaren, six, picked up their award at the prize-giving ceremony at the Royal Chace Hotel, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, last Thursday.

ADVERTORIAL

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which? Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering

If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and manager Richard Power agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

CSURE, he's a billionaire", said Donald Trump Junior, speaking about his father, the President-elect, "but he's a blue-collar billionaire".

It reminded me of Richard Digance's 1977 song about the "working-class millionaire", whose mansion has "marble halls with goalposts painted on the walls, and other things the Hampstead crowd detest."

What with Trump and Brexit, the Hampstead crowd have had lots to detest just lately.

When I first moved to Edmonton, it was very obviously a working-class area.

A high proportion of my neighbours worked in the engineering factories which then lined the North Circular Road and the Great Cambridge Road, where you now see mainly retail parks.

Most people owned, rather than rented, their homes.

I wouldn't say they all fantasised about being millionaires, but many assumed that, as property owners, they had achieved permanent financial security.

My street has changed a lot. The neatly-maintained terraced houses have become multi-occupied slums, with rubbish permanently piled outside. And yet the dream of getting on, of getting rich, is probably as widespread as ever.

For the great majority of us, it is an empty fantasy – and this fantasy lies behind the successes of Thatcherite and Blairite politics in Britain, and of Donald Trump in the USA.

It seems like we can't rely on public transport

I LIVE near Enfield Island Village. This is within reach of Enfield Lock station, but the transport is often cancelled or delayed and the trains only run every half hour most of the time at best and are severely overcrowded at peak times.

These 30-minute gaps seem shocking, given that we are in zone 6, comparable with Croydon and Heathrow, which have much more regular services and night bus provision.

There are more frequent, more reliable services to Manchester than home to my house from work in London!

Add to this the frequent shutdowns for engineering, this time every weekend for five weeks leading up to Christmas.

Why is there no replacement bus service to Tottenham Hale offered?

The alternative routes add between 35 and 60 minutes to each journey and extra cost, making life a misery and work shifts, Christmas shopping and leisure an impossibility.

Why is a bus not provided and why are local MPs not campaigning harder to improve local transport and life?

Many people rely on public transport and it should be possible to use that, but it seems it isn't in this borough, which is wrong.

Amendment wouldn't have helped anybody

I WAS surprised by the letter accusing me of hypocrisy over the issue of child refugees ("Mr Burrowes should offer an explanation", Advertiser, November 16).

It is a charge I totally refute, but it comes from a misunderstanding of my role in the so-called Dubs law which has formed the legal basis for relocating child refugees from Europe and particularly Calais.

I have taken a lead in parliament in championing the cause of refugees and helped ensure the government stepped up its response by extending resettlement schemes, including 3,000 places for children at risk in the Middle East and north Africa.

In relation to the Dubs law, I voted against the original amendment because it would not have worked in practice. MPs have a duty to pass good law, not just good campaign pledges.

I therefore worked with the government to revise the amendment to ensure there is a sound legal basis to respond to the crisis in Calais and transfer vulnerable child refugees.

I am pleased we are now seeing several hundred child refugees being relocated.

I have visited Calais twice to draw attention to the plight of lone children, asked questions in parliament and met regularly with ministers to get the complex practical operation of relocation right.

There are still serious questions about providing safety for children dispersed across France and not to discriminate on the basis of age.

I have consistently pressed the government to do more to uphold our historic and current duty to provide refuge for those fleeing persecution and will continue to do so. I have consistently advocated for this government to provide shelter for unaccompanied minors and will continue to do so. I have consistently worked with NGOs from Save the Children and UNICEF, to the Red Cross and Medicins Sans Frontieres, as well as MPs on both sides of the House.

In terms of saying one thing and doing another, I think the spotlight should remain on Enfield Council. The council has said it wants to welcome more refugees, but, while it does house a significant number of asylum seekers, it has not to date accepted the relocation of any Syrians from the VPR scheme or children from Calais as part of the Dubs scheme.

This was contempt for democracy

COUNCILLOR Terry Neville has once again used his column (Advertiser, November 16) to give vent to his anger at being in opposition.

But he omits to tell readers that the entire Conservative group of Enfield councillors planned and staged a walk-out from the September full council meeting, thus creating the democratic deficit that he whines about.

We, the Labour majority, had agreed with the opposition a timed agenda that guaranteed the item that was at the heart of the staged walkout would be debated in full.

His group misled the public in the gallery, let down the electorate and showed their contempt for the democracy of our borough.

They also walked out on their own timetable debates which they had previously assured us were of vital importance.

Furthermore, Mr Neville claims that we had voted down a motion calling on another councillor to resign.

This is untrue. The motion was not reached on the agenda, possibly because Mr Neville insists on speaking on every single issue on the agenda.

I ask your readers to have at hand a large barrel of salt whenever they feel the urge to read Mr Neville's musings.

A Raleigh-ing call to cyclists

AWARD-WINNING documentary company Testimony Films are making a new documentary for BBC4 celebrating the history of the Raleigh Bicycle Company and the bicycles that revolutionised cycling in Britain.

We are looking for interesting stories throughout the decades from the people who enjoyed Raleigh bicycles.

We would love to hear from the oldest people in Britain who have had or still own a Raleigh bike.

Were you born in the inter-war period and can talk about cycling in the 1920s and 1930s? Do you have fond memories of a Raleigh bike and the freedom it offered you, or tales of adventures on two wheels? Were you inspired by the sporting greats who rode Raleigh bikes?

If cycling has had or still has an impact on your life, or that of someone you know, we would love to talk to you about your story.

If you would like to share your memories with us, please get in touch with me on 0117 925 8589. Alternatively email emily.sivyer@testimonyfilms.com, or write to 12 Great George Street, Bristol, BS1 5RH.

Nobody ought to suffer this

NOBODY deserves to be punched, kicked or suffer life-changing injuries when they are at work – but that is what we are seeing on an increasingly regular basis.

What is even more alarming is that the majority of these devastating cases are from nurses and teachers – the very people who try to help society.

Research we have carried out returned shocking results. More than a third of public sector workers surveyed said they had been attacked or abused by members of the public. Of those more than one in ten had been physically assaulted.

We have publicised the case of Louise Jago, who was left in chronic pain for the rest of her life and unable to continue the job she loved after she was attacked by a patient. Nobody should have to endure trauma like that for simply doing their job.

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Natalie wins parent award for helping friend in need

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

AN "inspirational" mother has won a prestigious award for helping a friend who was in need of support when her new-born son was rushed into intensive care.

Natalie Lusardi, 28, of Manorway, Bush Hill Park, has received the Infacol Real World Parenting Award, which recognises individuals who go the "extra mile" in helping new parents.

Natalie provided much-needed support last year to a friend, Katherine Kelly, 28, whose son had to be treated in intensive care at Great Ormond Street Hospital, in London.

Having experienced medical complications with her own baby, Natalie knew how worrying it was to care for a new-born in hospital and then go home exhausted to cook dinner.

Natalie wanted to lend a helping hand, so she rallied friends and family together and they took it in turns each night to prepare and deliver a meal for Katherine and her husband, Alex.

"I wanted them to focus their time on their baby boy and not worry about preparing dinner after they got back from long days in the hospital," explained Natalie.

"After you've had a baby, you don't have time to cook – but it's really important to have a hot, nutritious meal. It's the best gift you can give to new parents."

Katherine nominated Natalie for the award because she wanted her support to be recognised.

"Through my son's life, Natalie has been a rock," said Katherine. "She is an inspirational friend and mother, continually putting herself out for others."

Natalie's son, Sebastian, now 16 months, also experienced health problems when he was born and developed severe jaundice as well as an allergy to cow's milk protein when he was five months old.

"Going through the allergy with my son has made me more determined to help other parents," added Natalie. "So I've made it my mission to do just that."

"It's not embarrassing to need help. It doesn't show any weaknesses. Everyone needs that support."

Fun fair: Clockwise from the left, Billy King, Anna Glasheen, Lauren King play under the snow machine; Elaine Carozzi and Mel the dog were among the visitors; and Max and Isabella Piazza are entertained by Jester Jim

All the fun of a festive fair

SHOPPERS were full of Christmas cheer as they strolled around the annual Frost Fair searching for stocking fillers.

The festive event took place over four days from last Thursday to Sunday in the grounds of historic Jacobean mansion Hatfield House.

More than 200 stalls sold original, hand-crafted gifts including small trinkets and jewellery.

Visitors were treated to Christmas pop songs by the Rock Choir and street entertainment including a magician who performed close-up tricks.

Children got the chance to see

Father Christmas, courtesy of Hatfield Rotary Club.

They also enjoyed an early white Christmas as they played under a snow machine and made their own festive decorations from flowers and greenery in workshops.

Tasty treats available included burgers and locally produced sausages and shoppers warmed their cockles with festive mulled wine and flavoured vodka.

Cliff Bloomfield, event organiser said: "We're lucky we can hold the event in such a beautiful setting like Hatfield House and there was a great turnout over the four days."

'Shopping locally can boost your community'

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

SHOPPERS are being urged to mark Small Business Saturday on December 3 by shopping locally.

Enfield Council is asking everyone to "think local" and see what shops in the borough have to offer, rather than go further afield.

The council hopes that by showcasing the borough, it might prompt customers to spend their cash locally, not just on that day, but in the run-up to Christmas and beyond.

Alan Sitkin, cabinet member for economic regeneration and business, is a lecturer in business and has done a lot of research on spending patterns.

He said: "These are really desperate times for local businesses.

"But we are absolutely committed to supporting them and urge our residents to shop at their nearest town centre on Small Business Saturday and in the run-up to Christmas.

"Independent traders make a tremendous contribution to our town centres and can really help shoppers. They are very flexible in terms of the sort of goods they stock and when they stock them – meaning they can often offer more to a local shopper than the bigger chains."

Local businesses everywhere are under threat, with growing internet sales and the rise of super-market giants.

Federation of Small Businesses research shows that more of the money spent locally stays locally, with £1 spent with a local supplier worth £1.76 to the local economy and only 36p if it is spent out of the area.

The money retained by local retailers is also reinvested in job creation, remunerating staff and paying for business rates which can be ploughed back into the borough by the council.

Mr Sitkin added: "Local shopping also helps keep independent shops and suppliers alive while retaining the distinctive character of your neighbourhood. In addition, local businesses are often owned by people who live in the borough.

"But it's not enough just to ask shoppers to spend in Enfield, it's two-fold. Local retailers must do more to earn their custom.

"We are offering internet advice and plenty of business tips at Enterprise Enfield because in this climate business owners need to do their research and make themselves as attractive as possible to customers in our borough, otherwise people will go elsewhere."

Authentic French cooking whisks us away to Paris

ENTERING Chez Ton Ton is like stepping into a traditional bistro in the heart of Paris.

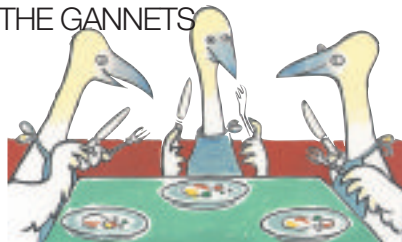

The owner, Eric, was warm and welcoming and his staff were attentive and helpful when explaining the menu. The bite-sized garlic breads brought to our table as an hors d'oeuvre were just the right size to whet our appetites.

Drinking in the ambience as well as drinking a very refreshing Kir Royal (French champagne cocktail), we decided on the parfait de volaille (chicken liver pate), £6.95, and moules mariniere (mussels), £7.10, both from the specials board, for our starters. They did not disappoint: the parfait was as light as air and delicious while the moules were juicy and flavoursome.

The main course of roast lamb in red wine jus, £17.95, was presented so beautifully that Greedy Gannet could not wait to tuck in. She declared it mouth-watering, tender and very, very moreish. The same was said of the braised French rabbit, £17.95, cooked slowly with white wine, cream, bacon, mushrooms, tarragon and deep fried onions. It was succulent and there was plenty to be had. Both were served with Dauphinoise potatoes and plenty of perfectly cooked veggies.

Between courses we had a chance to chat to our host who, with his wife Claudine, has run Chez Ton Ton since 1984. The secret of their continued success, says Eric, is down to the team they have around them. Their ingenious chef,

THE GANNETS

Chez Ton Ton, East Barnet Road, New Barnet

Hubert Champion, has been with them for 15 years and Eric highly praises his culinary skills – and rightly so.

Greedy Gannet and I decided to sample one last course of Hubert's fine work and plumped for homemade ice parfait with crushed raspberries and amaretti biscuits, £5.90, and the vanilla crème brulee, £5.90. It was a delectable ending to a lovely evening with such friendly hosts.

Chez Ton Ton offers lunch and dinner specials as well as a la carte. The lunch special is every day, two courses for £9.95, and the evening special is Tuesday to Thursday, from £16.95 for two courses.

Splash the cash locally

Small businesses in the borough are gearing up for a day of showcasing their wares as the final preparations for Small Business Saturday on December 3rd 2016 get under way.

Splashing the cash in small, local and independent businesses has been shown to directly benefit the local community, more so than when buying from large, dominant chain stores on the high street.

The Small Business Saturday idea began in the United States as a way to show shoppers that buying locally is the best way of supporting the local community.

2014 was the launch of the UK campaign where small businesses and local authorities joined forces to show that Christmas presents are best when bought from local suppliers. Independent businesses are eager to welcome any new customers on Saturday December 3rd so come along and join this movement.

In the Mood for music

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

ENGLAND had not long won the World Cup and The Beatles had just brought out Sgt Pepper when Nights in White Satin was released by The Moody Blues.

Almost half a century later, it's a testament to the song's enduring appeal that the timeless classic, which blended rock with classical music and was a hit on both sides of the Atlantic three times, still receives frequent air play on the radio, winning new generations of fans.

The track was taken from the first of the Brummie band's massively successful quartet of concept albums.

The string of hits which those albums produced are performed by a five-piece outfit featuring two former members of the Moodies when the show Legend of a Band – The Moody Blues comes to the Wylyott's Theatre, in Darkes Lane, Potters Bar on Thursday, December 1.

Although not part of the group's original line-up, drummer Gordy Marshall and keyboard player Paul Bliss performed together for 20 years with The Moody Blues.

Joining them is lead singer of 10cc Mick Wilson, guitarist Tim Wilson and bass player Malcolm Moore.

All are talented musicians as well as songwriters with Paul having written hits for Olivia Newton-John, Janet Jackson, Uriah Heep, Al Jarreau, Graham Nash and Celine Dion, as well as performing and writing for The Hollies for a number of years.

Mick's vocals have also featured with Lionel Richie, Kylie Minogue and Smokey Robinson.

Tim's credits include Leona Lewis, Westlife, Boyzone, Olly Murs, Emma Bunton, Ronan Keating and Beverly Knight, and Malcolm has recorded hits with One Direction and Alison Moyet.

In addition to Nights in White Satin, other songs featured include the number one hit Go Now, plus Tuesday Afternoon, Legend of a Mind (Timothy Leary's Dead), I Know You're Out There Somewhere, Question and Isn't Life Strange.

An intriguing adaptation that teeters on farce

Franz Kafka's Metamorphosis/Oluwa OI Dugdale Centre, November 20

IT'S certainly an intriguing idea – take Franz Kafka's complex and powerful novella and transplant it to a modern-day Nigerian village.

The production, adapted and directed by Nick Pelas, attempted to strip the original down to its bare essentials – the chief protagonist's attempts to come to terms with an unexpected and shocking transformation, as well as the reaction of friends and family, making use of a sparse set featuring just one bed and one sofa.

Pelas's reimagining cast Dominique Meredith in the central role of Abeni, the Nigerian analogue to Kafka's Gregor Samsa, and the bulk of the play centred on the reaction of those around her to her never-explained transformation into what the author himself referred to as "a large, monstrous insect-like creature".

There was little to criticise in Meredith's performance, such as it was – but since much of it consisted of writhing around in bed, little to praise either.

As relatives and friends fail to recognise Abeni's humanity beneath the grotesque carapace and her colleague Ayo (Laide Sonola) suggests they "take her to the bush and show her off and we'll make money", it becomes clear the bug has become a burden and we are in the midst of a family tragedy.

Nobody, it seems, is able to see past her transition to the woman beneath as she struggles with her identity. Her mother Yetunde (Stephanie Stevens) is conflicted as she battles revulsion to care for her daughter, while fashionable friend Abefe (Roxanne Douro) can't make any sense of the situation.

As Abeni's transformation progresses, Meredith is replaced by Athena Fairchild, who, clad in a black leotard, left this reviewer somewhat non-plussed with her screeches and rather disturbing dance routines.

And by the time the metamorphosis was complete and Fairchild had herself been replaced by a large insect puppet operated by Jacob Eiseman-Renyard, the whole thing was threatening to descend into an unintended farce.

There were things to praise in this production. Sonola gave a lively performance as Ayo and Douro was energetic as Abefe, but in the final analysis it's probably best to file this away under "brave experiment".

In search of a happy ever after

A UNITED KINGDOM
(12A, 111 mins)

A SHAMEFUL episode of bigotry during the post-war decline of the British empire provides rich source material for Amma Asante's handsome and deeply moving love story.

Anchored by impassioned performances, A United Kingdom dramatises the true romance of a defiant African prince and a London salesman's daughter, which embroiled two continents in an ugly tug-of-war for supremacy.

The central couple are kept apart for many years, including the birth of their first child, and scriptwriter Guy Hibbert captures the terrible injustice and anguish of this period of exile with aplomb.

Hibbert also gifts leading man David Oyelowo several barn-storming speeches against apartheid and intolerance, including a pivotal meeting of tribal chiefs, where the prince tearfully tells the assembled throng, "I love my people, I love this land – but I love my wife."

His unswerving belief that love conquers all at a time when the world still bears the scars of bitter conflict galvanises every beautifully composed frame and plucks the (heart)strings of composer Patrick Doyle's lush orchestrations.

Cinematographer Sam McCurdy contrasts the industrial grey of London with the sun-baked golds, oranges and browns of southern Africa, a ravishing backdrop where poisonous emotions take root and produce bitter fruit.

Seretse Khama (Oyelowo), heir apparent to the nation of Bechuanaland (now Botswana), is studying law in 1947

Fine romance: Rosamund Pike as Ruth Williams and David Oyelowo as Seretse Khama

London before returning home to lead his people.

He has been prepared for this role by his proud uncle Tshekedi (Vusi Kunene) and a council which kowtows to the British.

At a dance organised by the London Missionary Society, Seretse falls in love with typist Ruth Williams (Rosamund Pike), whose bigoted father George (Nicholas Lyndhurst) would never condone the flourishing romance.

"Father will hate [Seretse] on sight," observes Ruth's sister Muriel (Laura Carmichael). "He's cleverer than him... and he's black."

Paternal rage pales next to the indignation of Alistair Canning (Jack Davenport), the British government's representative in southern Africa.

"If you choose to marry the leader of an African nation, you will be responsible for the downfall of the British empire," he coldly informs Ruth.

Unperturbed, the couple marry and Ruth accompanies Seretse to Bechuanaland, where she faces hostility from uncle Tshekedi, aunt Ella (Abena Ayivor) and Seretse's sister Naledi (Terry Pheto).

Meanwhile, the British – represented by snivelling district commissioner Rufus Lancaster (Tom Felton) – and the South African government use underhand tactics to separate the lovebirds. A United Kingdom is a stirring ode to love, distinguished by molten on-screen chemistry between Oyelowo and Pike.

Asante elegantly navigates the political quagmire, eschewing heavy-handed sermonising about the controversial interracial romance, including powerful scenes of Ruth attempting to win over the sharp-tongued women of Bechuanaland.

Archive photographs over the end credits hammer home the couple's remarkable sacrifices and their enduring legacy in Botswana, and far beyond.

Terlings Park the perfect location for London commuters Phil and Carolyn

A commuting couple has found the perfect rural retreat for their young family at a Bloor Homes development in Hertfordshire.

For the last six years, Phil and Carolyn Offord have lived in a rented two-bedroom flat on the site of Arsenal's former Highbury football stadium in Islington, North London.

In many ways, it was the perfect home for Gunners fans Phil, 43, and Carolyn, 44.

But following the arrival of their sons, Cooper, 3, and Louis, 1, the couple decided it was time to move out of the city and escape to the country, while still remaining within easy commuting distance of the capital.

And their search led them to Terlings Park in Gilston, which boasts an idyllic countryside location as well as excellent rail links to the capital.

Trains from nearby Harlow Town take just over 30 minutes to get to Liverpool Street Station, from where it is only a short walk to marketing director Carolyn's office in Shoreditch.

Phil, a retail manager who works across the London area, said: "As an Arsenal fan it was great to live on the site of the old ground and within walking distance of the new stadium, but with two young kids we felt it was time to get out of the city in search of some fresh country air, a bigger house and a more relaxed lifestyle.

"What we were looking for was somewhere with a commute to Liverpool Street and Terlings Park fitted the bill perfectly.

"What really attracted us to the development was the layout of the houses and the fact there is lots of open space around them. Not every square inch of land is filled with houses, which is quite often the case at new developments, particularly in this part of the country.

"As someone who grew up in a small village in Scotland and has lived in big cities for the past 15 years, it's great to be back in the country and to see wild ducks waddling around when I look out of the window.

"We have the best of both worlds here. We live in a small village with a strong community feel but just down the road is Harlow which has the train station, great retail parks and all the facilities you require. And I can still get to Arsenal home games in about an hour."

Phil and Carolyn purchased their new five-bedroom detached Montagu house for around £700,000, with a mortgage which is costing them about the same per month as they were paying in rent for their flat in Islington.

Phil added: "We have got a lot more for our money here and one of the things that drew us to this house was the three-storey layout. The boys have got the top floor to themselves, we are going to turn one room on the first floor into a cinema/family room and then on the ground floor we have got the large kitchen for entertaining."

There is currently a selection of four and five-bedroom homes available at Terlings Park, priced from £690,000. Call 01279 883814 or visit bloorhomes.com for more information.

Spyder's got a bit more bite

By Darren Cassey

THE latest generation Audi R8 coupe has been on the market for a year now – so, aside from the Spyder's retractable roof, there's nothing particularly new to shout about.

That's not a problem, however, because the roof's opening and closing mechanism is certainly worth a mention. It takes 20 seconds to complete its movement, with the rear deck lifting up as arms twist and turn to accommodate the cloth canopy.

What's new compared with the previous generation R8 Spyder? That's where things start to get a bit more interesting. It's 25kg lighter but 50% more rigid thanks to the new aluminium-intensive chassis, which weighs only 8kg more than it does in the coupe. Extra stiffness comes from reinforcements in the sills, A-pillar and windscreen frame, so the car doesn't tie itself in knots when the road gets fun. Just one of the Audi R8 Spyder's many key selling points is its gorgeous styling. It somehow manages to look understated, imposing and elegant in equal measure, especially in the Daytona grey pearl-effect paint our car was daubed in. Quality exudes from every inch of the car, from the perfect shut lines of the body to the minimalist interior.

Every R8 is handmade on its own plinth in a dedicated factory and the attention to detail that affords is immediately evident. The only bug-bear is the driving position, which is hindered by the roof mechanism's packaging. The seat doesn't slide as far back as it does in the coupe, meaning drivers more than six feet tall will struggle to fit.

That aside, there are few cars that pack quite such a performance punch into such an exquisite package and, coupled with the purity of the glorious naturally aspirated 5.2-litre engine, few keen drivers will be left anything other than overjoyed by the experience. Steering is a little on the light side, which makes driving it near the limit a lesson in trust, but it doesn't take long to gel with the car – you'll never have to worry about finding the limit on the road, there's that much grip.

Out on the road, the R8 Spyder is something of a battering ram, offering searing performance whenever you stamp the throttle. Even with the gearbox in full auto mode, there's only a moment's hesitation as the S tronic system dives down the cogs before dumping all 532bhp and 540Nm of torque through the all-wheel-drive system and pinning you to the seat.

That pinprick on the horizon will scream past the window alarmingly quickly. The light steering and wide stance make it a less-than-ideal companion for a back-road blast but, particularly with the optional Sport exhaust, it can still be fun at sane speeds. Its party piece is how docile and easy to drive it can be when you're not stamping on the loud pedal at every opportunity.

Use the Drive Select toggle to put the car in comfort mode and you'll cruise about unassumingly.

Parking can be tricky, again because of just how wide this thing is – it'll barely fit in most bays width-wise – but thanks to a reversing camera and parking sensors the job is made a little less stressful.

It's hard to talk about something that costs a six-figure sum being value for money, but when you look at the build quality, performance and desirability in comparison with its rivals, it does seem like something of a steal.

With a starting price of £129,990, it's less expensive than a Porsche 911 Turbo Cabriolet and much more exciting to look at, too. It's considerably more expensive than a Jaguar F-Type SVR and marginally more than a Maserati GranCabrio, but feels better put together than both.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973; and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Classification) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'JT' etc. in the advertisement. 3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reason the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company. 13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability. 15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent. Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade connecting matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies.

However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Capital Media Newspapers Ltd or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes. Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:
1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisements offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisements', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisements must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'T1' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

In print... ...or Online

We'll give you the best of both worlds...every week, all week!

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

DREAM DAY FOR WINKS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY WINKS admitted that it had been a dream come true to score his first goal for Tottenham Hotspur during their dramatic 3-2 victory at home to West Ham United in the Premier League on Saturday.

The academy graduate was handed his first league start in the match and marked it by finding the target early in the second half to cancel out Mikhail Antonio's opener.

It looked as if Winks' goal would be in vain when Manuel Lanzini restored West Ham's lead, but a thrilling finish to the contest saw Harry Kane equalise on 88 minutes before going on to grab the winner from the penalty spot in stoppage time.

"What a game to be involved in and what a full debut to make," Winks said. "To win, that was the main thing – to get the three points – but to score as well, I can't explain the feeling."

"The goal is one moment in my life I can never repeat. I can't explain it, being a Spurs fan as well, scoring the equaliser against West Ham, it was brilliant. I could have kept running. I had a burst of energy and saw my family at the top of the stand as well and pointed to them. It was unbelievable."

"This team has showed time and again that when we go down, we keep going. We've got that belief, that know-how to get back into a game and it was never in doubt that we'd create the opportunities, so it was a case of keep playing, keep our heads and go from there."

MARTIN DALTON

Taking his chance: Harry Winks marked his first Premier League start by scoring against West Ham

"I know I can't get carried away – it's one game and one goal. I've got to keep working hard, show the right attitude and keep my mentality right because things can change so quickly in football. I've got to keep my head, keep working hard and keep improving."

Although Spurs remain unbeaten in the league this season, the victory saw them end a run of seven matches without a win in all competitions, and manager Mauricio Pochettino was relieved that they managed to secure maximum points.

"We're very happy and pleased for the character we showed," he said. "Maybe it wasn't our best game, but you cannot always play well and you always need to show character."

"It was a very difficult game. The second half was fantastic and it's just a shame we conceded the second goal from the penalty because at that moment we were much better. The important thing was that we continued in that way, kept going, always believed and how we won the game was fantastic in the end.

"Football is never finished until the final whistle, and if you believe, keep working and try to find the best situation to score, anything can happen in football."

"It's our 12th game in the Premier League and we're still unbeaten. The last month has been tough and it's fantastic to discover that feeling again for the games ahead. It was a very important three points to be close to the top after a month where we've suffered a lot."

Borough denied a point by a late goal at high-flying Bury HARINGEY BOROUGH were undone by a late goal on Saturday as they fell to a 2-1 defeat at high-flying Bury Town in Ryman League Division One North.

Although David Olufemi gave Borough an early lead, Luke Read cancelled this out soon after and the hosts went on to grab what proved to be the winner through Josh Mayhew four minutes from time.

Just eight minutes had been played when the visitors opened the scoring as Olufemi broke down the wing before unleashing a fierce shot from out wide which flew past keeper Neil O'Sullivan and into the net.

However, Borough were only in front for four minutes as Read equalised with a header from Bradley Barber's corner.

Only a stunning save from O'Sullivan prevented Andrew Cusack from restoring the visitors' lead, but Bury made the stronger finish to the first half – with Ryan Jolland, Tom Debenham and Barber all having good chances.

The start of the second period saw Borough regain control and Rakim Richards was denied by O'Sullivan at point-blank range before Daniel Aristifou fired just over at the end of a good run.

But the hosts were able to weather the storm and they were given more of a threat in attack by the introduction of Mayhew off the bench.

The substitute fired wide after finding himself through on goal, while Noel Aitkens had a shot blocked and Read was thwarted by some excellent defending.

Bury's pressure eventually told though as they made the decisive breakthrough in the 86th minute. Tevan Allen's throw found Barber and he delivered a cross which Mayhew smashed into the net.

Falling behind so late on seemed to deflate Borough and they never really looked like getting back on level terms after this – with Mayhew squandering a great chance to add a third for the hosts in stoppage time when he volleyed over from inside the six-yard box.

Haringey Borough host Romford on Saturday (3pm), before entertaining Thamesmead Town on Monday (7.45pm).

Melling signs up to boost the Skolars

THE London Skolars have bolstered their squad by completing the signing of utility back Jake Melling.

The 22-year-old began his rugby league career in his home town of Wigan, playing for Shevington Sharks and Wigan St Pats.

Melling then moved on to Super League outfit Warrington Wolves, where he spent three years in their academy.

Although predominantly a centre, Melling is capable of playing in any position in the back division and is also an England touch rugby international, having played in European tournaments as well as taking part in last year's World Cup in Australia.

"I'm excited by the challenge of coming to play in London," he said. "I've had a tour of the facilities and am really looking forward to getting involved with pre-season training."

Skolars' general manager Jac Davies added: "We're excited to have Jake at the club. He'll also be joining the staff team as our new corporate sales executive, giving him a really good understanding of the club and its partners."

Melling is the first new face to have been signed by the Skolars ahead of the 2017 Kingstone Press Championship One campaign, but a number of last season's squad have committed their futures to the club – with Billy Driver, Dave Williams, Ryan Chester, Aaron Smalls, Eddie Mbaraga and Charlie Lawrence all putting pen to paper on new deals.

The London Skolars will begin their preparations for the new campaign by taking on Super League champions Wigan Warriors in the Capital Challenge on January 20.
